

IPC at your service!

We all know IPC from the standards they publish and which we might use in our daily job. I think everybody has heard of documents like IPC-A-610 or IPC-7711/7721. You might even use IPC/WHMA-A-620 for the inspection of wire harnesses. Maybe your employees inspect the printed circuit boards you produce according to the IPC-A-600. Or perhaps your production line is setup following the requirements in IPC-J-STD-001. For people who know where to look IPC has a lot more to offer. Sometimes even without having to pay for it.

DOCUMENTS

- The standards mentioned above are the ones published by IPC most people know. Many more you can find in their catalog, dealing with an array of subjects. The latest version of the catalog you can download directly through this link
